To the love ye once bore him, when together ye graw,
In peace, by the side of your Mother.

Ye would sever the Union—but can ye uniwine
Those numberless ties that have bound you?
Like the threads of a creeping and delicate vine.
They have silently spread in the rain and the shine.
Till, when ye would burst them, each goesamer line
Turns to "cord and to cable" around you? Ye would sever the Union—What! ye who were nurse.

In the arms of so holy a Biother?

Would you dare to pronounce herestray and accurred who rocked you to sleep in one gradie at tirst—

Who shielded your head from the storm when it burst,

And no'er gave the charge to another?

le would sever the Union—but can ye forget How your fathers stood shoulder to shoulder?
How like one, in privation, their stern hearts were set;
How like one, in the conflict, our formen they met;
How like ene they were metted by sorrow, and yet
How in danger grow bolder and bolder?

To would sever the Union—but will ye divide
The flag of 'our freedom and glory?
It waved o'er the field where our forefathers died; their children unfurl it with reverent pride, and whose shall the task be to throw it aside, And tell the sad nations the story?

Ye would sever the Union—but who then shall claim
The grave of our country's Defender?
Will the North and the South fan the fuel to flame,
And fight o'er Ais ashes whose glorious name
Is a watchword of Liberty, Justice and Fame,
We would all rather die than surrender?

Ye would sever the Union—but wee to the day
When ye mingle in council no longer!
What shall keep rulers from deadly sifray?
What love shall be potent the people to sway?
Ye will find yourselves powerless the torrent to slay
Of hate and the right of the stronger. e would sever the Union-our Union-and why? Ye would sever the Union—our Union—and why short and few are the words of the reason; The North thinks the South should abju e Slavery. The South thinks the North does not tenderly try To view all her deeds with unprejudiced eye, And each finds a refuge in—Theason!

Transcendental Elequence.

The following speech of General Riley, de-livered in the Missouri House of Representa-tives, on February Stb, will repay perusal.

The man who cannot find in it a hearty laugh has "no music in his soul," and is only fit "for treason, strategem, and spoils."

Mr. Riley obtained the floor, and addressed the House:

Mr. SPEARER: - Everybody is a pitching into this matter like toad frogs into a willow swamp, on a lovely evening in the balmy month of June, when the mellow light of the full moon fills

On his arrival, she represented that she had with a delicious flood the thin, ethereal, atmospheric air. [Applause.] Sir, I want to put in a word, or perhaps a word and a half.

There seems to be a disposition to fight. I say, if there is any fighting to be done, come on say, if there is any fighting to be done, come on the say of the say o with your corn-cobs and lightning-bugs! [Ap-plause.] In the language of the ancient Roman,

"Come one! come all! This rock shall fly
From its firm base—in a pig's eye!"

Now, there has been a great deal of bombast here to-day. I call it bombast, from "Alpha" to "Omega." (I don't understand the meaning of the words, though.) Sir, the question to refer is a great and magnificent question. It is the all absorbing question; like a sponge, sir—a large, unmeasurable sponge, of globe shape. a large, unmeasurable sponge, of globe shape, in a tumbler of water—it sucks up every thing. Sir, I stand here, with the weapons I have designated, to defend the rights of St Louis coun ty, the rights of any other county—even the county of Cedar itself. [Laughter and applause.] Sir, the debate has assumed a latitudinosity. We have had a little black-jack buncombe, a little two bit bencombe, bombast the whole truth, she added, and all she had to ancombe, bunghole buncombe, and the devil and his grardmother knows what other kind of buncombe. [Laughter.]

Why, sir, just give some of 'em a little Southern soap and a little Northern water, and quicker than a hound pup can lick a skillet, they will make enough buncombe lather to wash the golden flock that roams abroad the agure meads of heaven. [Cheers and laughter.] I allude to the starry firmament.

The Speaker. The gentleman is out of order. He must confine himself to the question.

Mr. Riley. Just retain your linen, if you please. I'll stick to the text as close as a pitch plaster to a pine plank, or a lean pig to a hot jam rock. [Cries of "Go on;" "You'll do."] I want to say to these carboniferous gentlemen, these igneous individuals, these deconating demonstrators, these pereginous volcanoes, it is feed on the lawyer save to an asked her will sayer stepped forsh and asked her divided at young lawyer stepped forsh and asked her "if she had ever told anybody what she had done, or had any accomplice who could have divulged it?" "No," said she, "nobody had helped her, and they might well suppose she would not be such a fool as to tell it to any living creature." "What, nobody?" the young lawyer asked. "No," said she, "nobody had helped her, and they might well suppose she divulged it?" "No," said she, "nobody had helped her, and they might well suppose she divulged it?" "No," said she, "nobody?" the young lawyer asked. "No," said she, "nobody?" the young lawyer asked. "No," said she, "nobody?" the young lawyer asked it?" "I was not born in a thicket, To be scared by a cricket."

WITH DISPATCH! [Applause.

Sir, we have lost our proper position. Our proper position is to the zenith and nadir—our heads to the one, our heels to the other, at right heads to the horizon, spanned by that azure angles with the horizon, spanned by that azure are of the lustrous firmament, bright with the corruscations of the innumerable constellations corruscations of the innumerable constellations, and proud as a speckled stud-horse on county court day. [Cheers.]

"But how have the mighty failen!" in the language of the poet Silversmith. We have lost our proper position. We have assumed a sleahindicular or a diagonalogical position. And what is the cause? Echo answers "Buncombe," sir, "buncombe." The people have been fed on buncombe, while a lot of spavined, ring-boned, hamstrung, wind-galled, swineyed, split-hoofed, distempered, poll eviled, pot-bellied politicians have had their noses in the public crib, until there ain't fodder enough left to make gruel for a sick grasshoper. [Cheers and laughter.]

Sir, these hungry brats keep tugging at the public pap. They say, "Let down your milk, sucky, or you'll have a split bag." Do you think they can stuff such buncombe down our craw? No, sir; you might as well try to stuff butter in a wild cat with a hot awl. [Continued] think they can stuff such buncombe down our craw? No, sir; you might as well try to stuff butter in a wild cat with a hot awl. [Continued laughter.] The thing can't be did.

The public grind-stone is a great institution, sir—yes, sir, a great institution. One of the greatest, perhaps, that ever rese, reigned, or fell. But, sir, there is too much private cutlery ground. The thing won't pay. Occasionally a big axe is brought in to be fixed up, oatensibly for the purpose of hewing down the gnarled trunks of error, and clearing out the brushwood of ignorance and folly, that obstruct the public highway of progress. The machine whirls; the axe is applied. The lookers—on are enchanted with the brilliant sparks elicited. The tool is pollshed; keenly edged; and, while the public stare in gaping expectancy of seeing the road cleared, the implement is slyly taken off to improve the private acces of some "faithful friend of the people." What is the result? The observations remain unmoved. The people curse, because the car lags; or, if it does move, 'tis at the expense of a broken wheel and jaded and My facilities for doing any and all of the above descrip-tions of work, are now unsurpassed, and astanceton will be guaranteed in all cases.

Would sever the Union—but can ye undo

Sore-backed tesm. I to I you, the thing won't pay. The time will come when the nasal promontories of these disinterested grinders will be put to the stone, instead of their hardware.—

(Applause) I am mighty afraid the machine is going to stop. The grease is giving out thurdering fast. It is beginning to creak on its axit. Gentlemen, it is my private opinion, confidentially expressed, that all the "grit" is pretty near worn off. (Applause.)

Mr. Speaker, you must excuse me for my latitudinosity and circumicoutoriness. My old blunderbuss scatters amazingly, but if anybody gets peppered, it aln't my fault if they are in the way.

Sir, these dandadical, supersquirtical mahogany-faced gentry—what do they know about the blessings of freedom? About as much, sir, as a toad-frog does of high giory. Do they think they can escape me? I'll follow them through pandemonium and high water! [Cheers and laughter]

These are the ones, that have got our liberty

These are the ones that have got our liberty pole off its perpendicularity. 'Tis they who would rend the Stars and Stripes, that noble would rend the Stars and Stripes, that noble flag, the blood of our revolutionary fathers emblemed in its red; the purity of the cause for which they died denoted by the white; the blue—the freedom they attained, like the azure air that wraps their native hills and lingers on their lovely plains. [Cheers.] The high bird of liberty sits perched on the topmost branch, but there is secession on his glorious tail. I fear he will no more spread his noble pinjons to soor he will no more spread his noble pinions to soar beyond the azure regions of the boreal pole.— But let not Missouri pull the last feather from his sheltering wing, to plume a shaft to pierce his noble breast; or, what is the same, make a pen to sign a Secession ordinance. [Applause.] Alss, poor bird, if they drive you from the branches of the hemlock of the North, and the Palmetto of the South, come over to the gumtree of the West, and we will protect your noble birdship while water grows and grass runs.— [Immense applause.] Mr. Speaker, I subside

A Curious Affair.

Some eighty or a hundred years ago, the body of a man was found in the Tiber at Rome. It was recognized as that of a porter, well known about the city, but a stranger thing was that a second body (also that of a man) was found at the same time tied up in a sack, which was strongly stitched on the collar of the coat of the porter. This was not so easily recognized, but the strangeness of the circumstances set all the authorities immediately to work in the greatest earnest, and excited much interest in the city. Before long, suspicion arose, which attached itself to a woman of doubtful character, who lived in the outskirts and whose hus-band had all at once disappeared. All, how-ever, that was known was this, that she had lived unhappily with him. Nothing could be discovered or brought home to her beyond the fact that he was gone, and of course she maintained that he had left her, and that she was a much injured person.

And thus, as there was no proof, after a white the talk of the affair was dying out, when at once it was fanned into a flame again; the suspected house was revisited, and the woman actually brought to confess the truth—that she had murdered her husband and caused, likewise, the death of the porter. Upon this, with-out further ado, she was apprehended, and had to undergo her trial. The obtaining this conto undergo her trial. The obtaining this confession, and the discovery of what had baffled the wisest heads in Rome, caused a very great sensation, but nobody seemed to know how it had been brought about. Upon her trial, she said she had murdered her husband out of jealousy, and with no help from any human creature. The great difficulty she found was in disposing of the body. At last she hit upon this contrivance. She crammed it into a sack, and sent for a porter with whom she was accurate.

she said, but she would pay him well for his job, and give him some refreshments before he started with his load. The matter thus arstarted with his load. The matter thus arranged, they supped and caroused together, and she so plied him with drink that he was well nigh overcome. She then brought out the sack, and while pretending to adjust it to his shoulder, stitched it strongly to the collar of his coat, at the sack of t middle of the bridge was to lean it toward the edge, and chuck the sack as he could over the parapet, so as to get it clear out of the way into the current, and she would give him his money when he came back, which, of course, he tell. When the trial had arrived at this point a young lawyer stepped forth and asked her "if she had ever told anybody what she had men, these igneous individuals, these deconating demonstrators, these pereginous volcances, come on with your combustibles! If I don't—I'll suck the gulf of Mexico through a goose quill. [Laughter and applause.] Perhaps you think I am diminutive tubers and sparse in the mundane elevation. You may discover, gentlemen, you are laboring under as great a misapprehension as though you had incinerated your inner vestment. In the language of the noble bard.

Why do Animals Need Salt.—Prof. Jas. E. Johnson, of Scotland, says: "Upwards of half the saline of the blood (57 per cent.) consists of common salt; and as this is partly discharged every day throughout the skin and the healthy body, becomes sufficiently obvious. The bile also contains soda (one of the ingredients of salt,) as a special and indispensible constituent and so do all the cartilages of the body. Stint the supply of salt, therefore, and neither will the bile be able properly to assist digestion, nor the cartilagesto be built up again as fast as they naturally waste."

It is better to place salt where stock can have free access to it, than to give it occasionally in large quantities. They will help themselves to what they need, if allowed to do so at pleasure; otherwise, when they become "salt hungry," otherwise, when they become "salt hungry, they may take more than is wholesome.

PROFIT OF FOWLS .- A lady friend of ours states that from forty hens, kept in the ordinary barn-yard manner of the country, with the addition of about one pint of corn per day, ahe obtained during the months, inclusive, of March and September, over four thousand eggs, and about two hundred chickens. The fowls were confined each night, in a house, where the droppings could all be saved, and from them nearly pings could all be saved, and from them nearly five barrels of manure, equal to the best guano, were gathered. This result, when footed up, gives a return as follows: 4,000 eggs at 1 cent, $40; 200 chickens at 16 cents, $32; 4½ barrels of guano, at $10, $45. Total, $117. One pint of corn per day for 210 days, at 50 cents per bushel, $1,60; meal for chickens, say $1; total, $6,60. Not result on 40 cents for chickens, say $1; total,

Dr. Kryszr:—My wife has been afflicted with a bad cough and difficulty of breathing, for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case, I procured some of your Pectoral Cough Syrup. I bought, the first time, a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured ber entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine myself to a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by the ing one dose I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish this if you desire to do so.

Pritisurion, Nov. 18, 1858.

Dr. Keyfer :—Although not an advocate of Patent Medicines, in general, it affords me pleasure indescribable to recommend your Peotoral Byrup. As a medicine it is well worthy the attention of any person who may in any manner be afflicted with coughs, colds and hoarseness of any hind, and for the peculiar qualifications for removing all that disagreeable zenestion attending a severe cold.

I have been, more or less, in my life, affected with the severest of colds and hoarseness. At times my throat would become so closed as to prevent my speaking above a whisper, and by taking a few dores of the above Byrup it would relieve me entirely.

In recommending this medicine, I must unhesitatingly say that it is the best remedy I ever found, purporting to cure the above, nor should any family be without this remedy for diseases so provalent.

Yours, most respectfully,

EDWARD J. JONES,

Cashier Citizens' Deposit Bank.

I have used Dr. Keyner's Cough Syrup for a bad cough of several years standing, and can cheerfully say it is the best medicine for the same that I have ever taken.

GOL. PRATT AND DR. KEYSEE'S PECTORAL SYRUP.—Dr. Kayam.—Dear Sir: Excuse the delay of my acknowledging the excellence of your Pectoral Cough Syrup scener. I take great pleasure in saving that it is all you say it is. Il knocked the noise out of my cough and the worst one I was ever afflicted with: I have not used more than one-half of the bottle. and I can and do wish that all who are afflicted would give it as fair a trial as I have done, and they will be proud to say, "It is no quack medicine." I would not suffer another such an attack for any consideration, or at any cost. I sm confident I can breather more freely than Lever did. I shall always acknowledge a debt of gratitude for inventing so excellent a remedy. You are at liberty to use my name in this regard, as you think proper E. F. PRATT.

READ THE TRUTH .- DR. KEYSER: I have a dans ter who has taken several medicines for a had cough, without benefit—among them Ayer's Cherry Pectorsi.—
I purchased from you a bottle of your PECTOBAL SYRUP, and before she had used half a bottle she was railwed. The second bottle cured her entirely of her cough.

PRITISHERM, December, 31, 1853.

A GREAT CURE BY DR. KEYSEE'S PROTORAL SYRUP.—I live in Peebles township, Allegheny county. I had a coughing and spitting, which commenced acoust the 4th of February last, and continued eight months. I employed the best physicians in the country, and my cough continued unabated until early in October. At that time I was advised to try your PROTORAL COUGH SYBUP, which I did, and after I had taken one bottle I was entirely free from the coughing and spitting I had despaired of ever getting well, and I hims it should be known that this valuable ren edy will do for others what it has done in my case.

A WONDERFUL CURE—Some time ago an old neighbor of mine was very ill with a bad cough which every one supposed to be consumption. His resultes told me that he had taken every remedy they heard of without benefit; his brother came to see his die, and all were confirmed in the hole? that he could not live. I had about the third of a bottle of your Pectoral Strappwhich I gave him, and it entirely cured him to the asteulishment of all. What makes the case more remarkable, is the extreme age of the man, he bring about the hyspers old. I have no doubt the Pectoral saved his live.

DR. HEYSEL'S PROTORAL SYRUP IN PLAIRS-VILLE.—Please cend me another supply of your valuable 'Pootora: Syrup." simost everybody around us has the cold and are inquiring for "Dr. Kayser's Pectoral Syrup." We have sold sixteen bottles has tweek and are now unifrely out. Mr. a. Alter and Mr. P. Maher, both of Biniravi ie, Pa. tell us they would not be without it in their families. In fact, all who use it once want it again. Yours, respectfully.

ANOTHER NEW CERTIFICATE—DR. KEYRER'S
PECTORAL SYBUP.—I had been troubled with a cough and cold for several weeks—so bed was it that I could not sleep. I had the advice and prescriptions from three of the bestphysicians in the city, whom I could mame, but do not do so. I finally precured a bottle of your Pecteral Syrup, which cured me entirely. Signed,

"Go to Keyses on Wood street and get a bottle of his Cough Pectoral, and if that don't cure you, your case must be desparate indeed." This is a specimen of the colloquy one hears almost every day in cold catching periods of the year. And we can, from actual experiment, cheerfully concur in the advisor's admention as above, for we have tried the "Pectoral." in a most studbern case, with entire success. Near two weeks ago we went to Pittaburgh, with one of the most distressing, contrary, muitsb, ansubduable coughs we ever experienced since our advant upon this mundame uphere. We coughed standily and laboriously for one whole week in hopes of standily and proved by practice, and to have sequired strength, petency and distressibility by the operation. In this stage of the stegs, we con the don't way to Keyser's, let Wood St.—procured a fifty cent bottle of the "Pecural;" task it according to directions, and in forty-eight hours we seem master of the field, the enemy having unconditionally surrendered, after a brief but meetaal conflict with so formidable an adversary as Keyser's famous "Cough Pectoral."—Proceneelle Chipper, Dec. 14, 1859.
